Market Report by Paul Need

Dear all, I am amazed at how pricing levels are continuing to increase, butter is way over £6000 pmt for bulk. This is keeping milk tight for cheese production and I feel that we will not see any change until early next year. Our main aim is to make sure we have continuity of product going into the winter months and making sure that we achieve a competitive price level.

We are also developing new products that can give competitive pricing such as white & coloured cheese this will be available by October (please ask the team for details if you are interested) exports are still very strong and pricing achieved is a lot higher than the UK.

I could go into a lot more detail on why the market conditions are tight and pricing is so high, so please do not hesitate to contact me.

Get a slice of this!

Excellent portion control and cost effective too, Many different flavours, edam and chilli to name a few,

Whether it be mozzarella for your wrap or a smoked slice for your burger, Spinneyfields slice range will have you covered so you needn't look any further
